When life gives you lemons!

Lemons were once a symbol of wealth and royalty. In the Victorian age, the wealthy raised lemons on their estates as a fragrant status symbol.

Lemons were once so treasured and rare that royals would give them to one another as gifts.

Egyptians thought eating lemons protected them from various poisons.

A single lemon tree produces an average of 600 pounds of fruit per year!

Amalfi lemons, grown on Italy's Amalfi Coast, ripen to twice the size of the average cooking lemon. Yum—no wonder limoncello is extra lemony good!

That lemon is for more than adding flavor to your iced tea!

Remove hard water and mineral buildup from sinks and faucets by spraying the area with lemon juice and letting stand for 15 minutes.

Remove the scent or flavor from your cutting board but rubbing it with half a lemon and salt.

Clean your grout by spraying it with lemon juice and letting it sit for ten minutes before scrubbing.

Freshen stained or smelly plastic containers by rubbing them with lemon juice and letting them sit for 15 minutes before rinsing.

Get rid of the foul smell from your sink by adding a few ice cubes, lemon peels and salt.

Cut grease from roasting pans by adding a teaspoon of lemon to the dishwasher.

A special thanks to our community partners - Donna from Blue Palm, who provided roses to all of our ladies on Mother's Day, and Teresa from Arden Court, who donated an awesome basket for our Pet Project and who sponsors our support group. Thank you so much!
